Abstract

A reticle transferring support. The reticle transferring support has a supporting base for containing a reticle, a plurality of braces for supporting the reticle, and a plurality of holders for fixing the position of the reticle. The braces are spheroids composed of soft plastic, and the position of the braces is adjustable so that the reticle will not be damaged. The holders each have an inclined plane so that the position of the reticle will be fixed automatically.
